History of the Crime.

Auburn, N. Y., Oct. 29.—President McKinley's assassin, Leon F. Czolgosz alias Fred Nieman was successfully electrocuted at Auburn prison today. The young murderer was pronounced dead at 7:16-15 o'clock this morning. With purely animal courage that had sustained him and the innate coward within him struggling to his lips, the youthful murderer hated by nation and world at large, paid the penalty for his crime.

Czolgosz took the death chair at 7:15 a. m. and in less time than it takes to tell it, the deadly current had passed through his body, rubbing out his miserable existence with merciful and unerring swiftness.

Seated in the chair with the fatal current about to be applied, Czolgosz, facing the witnesses said:

"I shot the President because I thought it would benefit the good working people of all nations. I am not sorry for my crime."

During this time, the attendants were busy strapping him to the chair. His last words were: "I am heartily sorry I did not see my father."

This was said after the strap had been drawn across his face, yet his words were heard distinctly by all the witnesses in the room.

Czolgosz went to his death unsupported by the comforting thought that he had made peace with his God. For the first time in the history of the prison, a condemned man marched to the fatal chair unaccompanied by a spiritual advisor. Spiritual aid had been offered him, but he had scorned entreaties. Czolgosz wanted no one to pray for his soul.

The assassin was awakened from a sound sleep at 5:30 o'clock this morning and warrant was read to him. He listened without emotion and after eating sparingly of breakfast he prepared for the death chair. He came into the death chamber without a tremor and took his place, saying nothing beyond the remarks quoted.

At 7:05 o'clock when Warden Meade called upon those assembled in his office to prepare to go to the death chamber. The witnesses had been chattering with one another as though they were to attend a political gathering instead of an execution, but at the sound of the warden's voice a hush came over them as they filed out and into the hall which opens out on the prison yard. Although the guards had mounted the walls at the usual time of 7, the thousand convicts were not turned out until after the assassin had been successfully launched into eternity. As the witnesses passed down the corridor not a sound was heard from the convicts, who standing in their cell doors watched the little procession file past. Everyone of them knew that the slayer of the country's ruler was to meet a just fate. Heretofore groans and catcalls have greeted witnesses bound for the death chamber but today there was a silence that was almost impressive. As the witnesses filed past through the corridor they could glance through the grating at the left at the tops of the condemned men's cells but the occupants could not be seen. Czolgosz in his cell, knew that his time on earth was limited. He heard the tread of the witnesses and with beating heart awaited the final summons. The other murderers crouched in their cells and waited in fearful expectancy for the appearance of the guards. In a cell next to the one occupied by the assassin is Alfred Krist, the Owego murderer, who is to meet death in the same chair on Monday next.

The door of the execution chamber was opened and as the witnesses filed slowly in they took seats in the chairs ranged along the sides and back of the room. The chamber of death was lighted by a number of incandescent lights with electricity furnished by the dynamos in the prison shops.

Electrician E. F. Davis, who has officiated at every electrocution since the electrocution of Kemmler, August 6, 1890, was waiting for his 58th victim. Every detail had been arranged with care. All was in readiness. Standing at the door of the little closet in one corner of the electrocution chamber he surveyed the witnesses as they entered.

Warden Meade and Superintendent Collins quickly took up their positions. Meade standing a few feet from the chair and in a position where he could signal Electrician Davis when the opportune moment arrived. When the witnesses had seated themselves the electrician proceeded to test the apparatus to see that everything was in working order. The electrician nodded to Warden Meade that all was in readiness.

Dr. MacDonald who officiated at the first electrocution and who had witnessed many since in an official capacity, stood beside the chair. It was a nervous and anxious body of men that watched these final preparations. The chair of death was in front of them so close in fact that some of them could almost have touched it. There was a stillness of death in the room. Standing at the door leading to the row of murderers' cells stood Principal Keeper Tupper ready to admit the Warden when he went after Czolgosz.

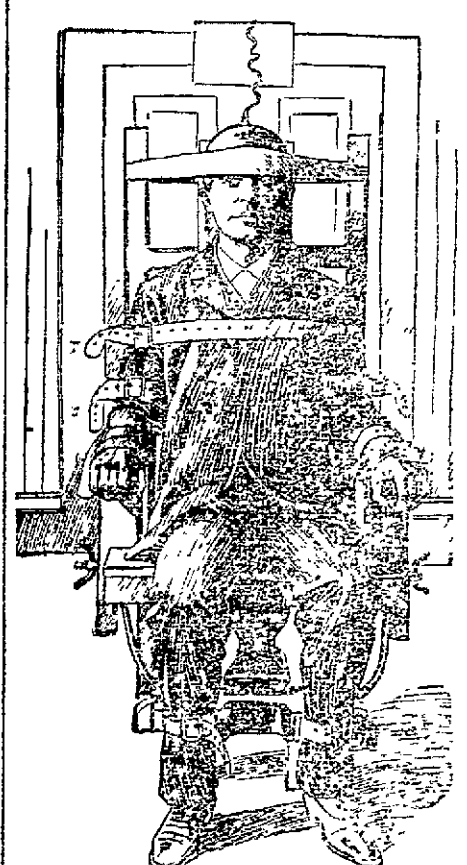

The head electrode which had been soaked in a pail of salt water in a corner of the electrocution chamber was in the meantime being examined by Mr. Davis. Seconds seemed hours those in waiting. The witnesses sat still and immovable, every eye on the door from which the doomed man was soon to enter. They nerved themselves for any ordeal. Many thought the assassin might collapse on his way to the chair, others that he might die propounding his anarchistic theories.

When all was ready Warden Meade and four guards went after the assassin. Keeper Tupper shot back the bolt of the door leading to the condemned man's row with a clang. The witnesses seated nearest the corridor caught a momentary glimpse of the cell, less than 40 feet from the chair. It was quickly reached by the guards. The door was unlocked and swung wide open. Czolgosz was ready. He was hustled out of the cell and with a guard on either side was marched to the chair. As he entered the death chamber he looked about him. He saw the cold, stony, unsympathetic gaze of the witnesses upon him. His eyes stared and he was apparently nerving himself for the final words. The prisoner came with a shambling gait. He walked free, his sullen face was almost ghastly in the dim light, but it was not strained. Those who saw it for the first time noted the effeminacy of the amorous lips, the long jaw and strong thick nose, the unevenly moulded features of his round face, the left eye being higher than the right and the left ear higher than the right. The guards hustled him into the chair and in less time than it takes to tell Czolgosz was on the brink of eternity. It was 7:10:30 when he entered the chamber and four and a half minutes later he was pronounced dead by the attending physicians.

CZOLGOSZ IN THE DEATH CHAIR.

Once in the chair Czolgosz glanced helplessly about, and while the electricians were adjusting the electrodes and drawing taut the straps he attempted to make a statement: "I shot the President because I thought it would benefit the good working people," he said.

It was with an effort that he spoke. The witnesses, surprised, glared their eyes on the assassin and strained their ears to catch the words which followed. The attendants faltered not a moment, but adjusted the straps and electrodes with unerring precision. More incoherent words followed. They were almost unintelligible. The assassin had evidently made up his mind what he would say but with death before him he faltered, "I am not sorry for my crime."

This utterance was painfully distinct. Reports do not agree as to Czolgosz' first speech. After the execution it was declared that he said: "I killed the President because he was an enemy of the good working people."

The attendants seized Czolgosz' legs and passing the straps around them bound them firmly. A cut had been made in the right leg of his trousers ready for the electrode which was applied after the man's leg had been bared above the knee. His arms were bound to the arms of the chair and straps were quickly passed across the abdomen and chest until he was firmly bound down. Then the face straps covering the chin and a part of the nose were fastened in place.

Czolgosz made one final effort to talk. He was evidently thinking of home for just before the current was applied he said: "I am heartily sorry I could not see my father."

When Warden Meade gave the fatal signal, Electrician Davis turned the lever and 1700 volts went through the body, which stiffened with a suddenness that was startling. The assassin's body bounded up with a powerful convulsive movement as if he would burst the straps. His chest arched out, the straps which held it drawing taut. For over a minute the current went bounding through the body. Every muscle was tense. The face as far as could be seen, did not change expression. Then the current was turned off. No sound came from the body. The murderer's chest which had been thrown forward against the straps, fell in. The body relaxed and sank back in the chair. The current of 1700 volts, 5 amperes, was slowly reduced to 200. Then the full current was turned on again and slowly reduced to almost nothing. At 7:15:30 there was a third contact which lasted but a second. Again the body stiffened under the powerful current, falling back limp and lifeless when the current was turned off. Dr. Gorin stepped forward with a stethoscope. The assassin's coat was thrown back and his shirt opened in front. The instrument was placed over the heart and the doctor listened for signs of life. "He is dead" was all he said. This was at 7:15. Other doctors examined the body which was then carried to an adjoining room for the autopsy.

The autopsy showed Czolgosz' brain to be in a perfect, normal condition. It was above the average in weight.

IN NORTH CAROLINA.

A Hundred Horses Killed and Three Men on Show Train Hurt—Four Cars Smashed.

Four show cars were smashed, 100 horses were killed and the trainmaster, engineer and reman of the show train were hurt. The accident was caused by the engineer of train No. 57 mistaking his orders and running on the time of the show train, No. 72, which had the right of way.

Botha's Narrow Escape.

Pretoria, Oct. 29.—(Bulletin.)—Commander General Botha today barely escaped capture at the hands of Colonel Rimington's force. Rimington surprised the Botha laager, the Boer commander in chief escaping by only a few hundred yards start. Botha left his hat, revolver and papers behind him in his flight. Ten prisoners were taken, including Commandant Hans Botha.

KIDNAPING

Is the Charge Mr. Stettler Prefers
Against His Wife—The Couple Had Separated.

Portland, Ind., Oct. 29.—Mrs. Effie Stettler of New York, arrived at Decatur Monday, and drove to the home of Henry Stettler, her husband's father and took her two-year-old son Maxrue, from the yard. Her husband, Benton Stettler, a resident of Fort Wayne, swore out a warrant for his wife's arrest, kidnapping being the charge. The couple were married seven years ago, but separated, signing an agreement not to appear against each other in case of divorce proceedings. Stettler brought the child to his parent's home. The woman claims that Stettler married her under the assumed name of Kenner.

November Election.

New York, Oct. 29.—Elections will be held in twelve states on Tuesday November 5th. State officers are to be chosen in Iowa, Maryland, Massachusetts, Mississippi, Nebraska, New Jersey, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, and Virginia. Legislatures are to be elected in Iowa, Kentucky, Maryland, Massachusetts, Nebraska, New Jersey, New York, Ohio and Virginia. Those in Iowa, Kentucky, Maryland and Ohio to have the choice of United States Senators.

Four Congressmen will be chosen to fill vacancies, one in Pennsylvania, one in New York, one in South Carolina, and one in Texas.

Connecticut will elect delegates to a constitutional convention.

Municipal elections will be held in many cities in New York state. Much interest centers in the mayoralty election in Greater New York, where Seth Low, former president of Columbia University and Edward M. Shepard, a well known legal light are the opposing candidates. Both have National reputations as reformers. Low was named by a fusion convention consisting of Republicans, Citizens, Unionists and anti-Tammany Democrats. Shepard was nominated by the Democrats.

A good deal of interest attaches to the result in Maryland where Gorman's return to the Senate is an issue and in Pennsylvania, where Quay is fighting to hold his position against a combination of Republicans and Democrats.

THE WEATHER.

Prediction for Newark and vicinity: Cloudiness and warmer tonight; probably fair Wednesday. Temperature extremes at Columbus station 23 years' record for October 29: Maximum 75 degrees in 1896; minimum 27 degrees in 1895; minimum temperature at Columbus in the past 24 hours, 48 degrees; maximum temperature 70 degrees.

KILBOURNE'S DEFAMERS

Splendidly and Effectually Answered by the Democratic Candidate and Hon. Allen W. Thurman—A Meeting at Springfield That Proved the Greatest of the Campaign Up to Date.

Springfield, O., Oct. 29.—"Convict labor? What of it? What of convicts? Our Republican friends have been greatly exercised over the purchase of $22 worth of bolts by Colonel Kilbourne to finish an emergency order. Their papers, although convinced of their error, insist on repeating the infamous lies. Now, let them answer this: Why did Governor Nash select an ex-convict in preference to a free man for Superintendent of the Free Employment Bureau at Columbus? Commander Grimm of the McCoy Post G. A. R., at Columbus, a soldier who served three years in the camp and on the battlefield, was an applicant for the place. Was he appointed by this party that is in favor of the old soldier and prates of being the friend of the defenders of their country? No! The place was given to a man who had served three years in the penitentiary for burglary. Three years in shameful stripes against three years in glorious blue. And the man in stripes was chosen in preference to the man in blue."

This was the sensational reply of Allen W. Thurman of Columbus at the opening Democratic rally in this city which took place tonight at the City Hall.

The statement was drawn out through the republication in a Cincinnati paper of the absurd and discredited charges raised against Colonel Kilbourne. As the fellow townsman of the nominee Mr. Thurman took occasion to scathingly denounce these tactics and arraigned Governor Nash for his failure along the lines alleged against Mr. Kilbourne. The nominee himself took occasion to reply to them, using the same evidence submitted at Columbus last week, taking up the charges ad seriatim. This defense has been published, and has had the effect of silencing the Columbus papers.

Mr. Thurman was not limited by the same conventionalities as Colonel Kilbourne, and the manner in which he hurled heavy chunks of sizzling hot matter was worth going miles to hear. The rally was a most encouraging one, the City Hall Auditorium being filled from wall to wall. The chairman of the meeting was Hon. John L. Zimmerman, who was Col. Kilbourne's chief rival for the gubernatorial nomination. Colonel Kilbourne was accompanied from Columbus by Allen W. Thurman and ex-Mayor Samuel Black. They were met by a Reception Committee made up of W. R. Burnett, H. S. Showers, Harry Rice, John L. Zimmerman, Rev. A. C. McCabe, Thos. F. Wallace, W. G. Koiler, Judge F. M. Hagan, A. D. Lebolt and Charles A. Snyder.

A reception was tendered to him at the Arcade Hotel, many hundreds of the leading citizens of both parties calling to pay their respects to the candidate. Colonel Kilbourne was given a warm greeting and close attention while he spoke. One of his sentiments was loudly applauded. It was a personal tribute to former Governor Allen W. Thurman.

Both Released.

South Bend, Oct. 29.—According to Coroner Renno, Charles Webb came to his death by asphyxiation, and in consequence his brother and sister have been released from custody. They were held under surveillance because of alleged suspicious circumstances connected with the death of Webb and the illness of Cora Webb and their mother, the family being found unconscious in their house.

Ended in Death.

William, the little three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Lavin of North Fourth street, died this morning at 3 o'clock from injuries he received about a week while standing near a small on-fire. The funeral will be held Thursday morning at St. Francis de Sales church at 9 o'clock.

ernor Asa S. Bushnell, whom he declared had been "vilely vilified by a part of his own party, but left his high office with the respect and affection of all the citizens of the state."

Colonel Kilbourne took occasion to reiterate his views on the tariff question. As a large purchaser of steel he could say that it had been advanced 50 per cent in price by the billion-dollar trust. He demanded of his hearers to know if they knew of labor getting any part of this advance. He declared it his belief that President Roosevelt would not be permitted to carry out the policy of his predecessor.

"I wish him success, God bless him," said the speaker. "But I fear that the trusts will be too powerful for him and will prevent the passage of any measure of relief for the benefit of the oppressed. Nor can the politicians of the party be trusted to support President Roosevelt. They are not going to quarrel with the source from which they draw their supplies. One might as well seek to gather figs from the thistles."

He called attention to the fearful powers of the trusts by citing the political destruction of Justice Thaddeus Minshall and Attorney-General Monnet, who were driven from office because they were honest and did their duty under a law that was objectionable to the rising tide of corruption in elections, remarking that "the purchase of United States Senatorships is becoming a byword" and that "the election of a man to a high office without the lavish use of money would be regarded as remarkable."

In closing he repeated his famous Bucyrus appeal for the rooting out of the bribe taker and the briber from our political system.

Colonel Kilbourne was followed by ex-Mayor Black, of Columbus, who discussed the municipal government features of the State platform, and succeeded in making a profound impression upon his hearers. One striking point brought out was the fact that in less than ten years a majority of the people of Ohio would be living in cities. Already 40 per cent of the total vote is being cast by urban residents. This being true it behooved the state to make ready for the control of these giant municipalities.

The meeting was closed by Allen W. Thurman, who explained that the only reason he was there was to take the side of his boyhood friend and fight his unscrupulous foes. His defense was a strenuous attack upon the nominee's traducers, and his arguments and points kept the audience cheering half of the time.

One of the features of his address was his advocacy of the taking up of politics by the various labor organizations in order to meet the combination of capital in the law-making centers.

"You will never make any headway until you do so," was his warning to his hearers. The same advice he gave to the small business man and trader, now timid and frightened by the approach of the trusts.

THE DUKE'S AFFAIRS.

London, Oct. 29.—The bankruptcy court has admitted the claim of John Smith, merchant, for 1000 pounds against the Duke of Manchester in the eventual settlement of the Duke's debts. FIRE IN NORTH SIDNEY.

Halifax, N. S., Oct. 29.—A fire broke out in North Sidney this morning and after destroying the magnificent store and $200,000 worth of stock of Voight Brothers, the largest general merchants in the maritime province, it was brought under control. Several other buildings were slightly damaged.

W. N. FULTON.

The people of Licking county are exceedingly fortunate in having an opportunity to vote for so worthy a successor to E. T. Rugg, as County Treasurer, as Mr. W. N. Fulton, the Democratic candidate.

Twenty odd years ago, Mr. Fulton served the people of this county as Treasurer and during his term of office he sustained the high reputation which he had previously and has since borne. In recent years Mr. Fulton has been identified with the Peoples National Bank having up to a few months ago when he severed his relations with that institution, served as its president. Mr. Fulton was instrumental in building up the Peoples Bank to the enviable position it now occupies—that of one of the foremost financial concerns in Central Ohio. He accomplished this through his great familiarity with financial affairs and through his wide acquaintance and great personal popularity. In the most remote corner of Licking county, Mr. Fulton is well known and highly esteemed. Nearly everybody in Newark is pleased to call him a friend.

With the enviable record Mr. Fulton possesses as a business man and a citizen, with his wide acquaintance and his exceedingly wide circle of personal friends, there is no question of his election as Treasurer of Licking county, neither is there any question that he will perform all the duties of the office honorably, efficiently and satisfactorily to the people.

Mr. Fulton's name adds strength to the already strong ticket. Voters of Licking county, irrespective of their politics, will do credit to themselves and the community by voting for W. N. Fulton.

Campaign meetings are not essential to the success of a party at the polls. The essential thing is to get out the vote. That is what counts. Get out the vote.

COL. KILBOURNE'S LABOR RECORD.

The Republican State Executive Committee, with the aid of convicts in the penitentiary, Republican penitentiary convict labor contractors and unprincipled liars, has filled the Republican newspapers with the lying charges that Colonel James Kilbourne is the enemy of organized labor.

If this is true it is likely that the labor unions of Columbus would have adopted this resolution in 1900?

Fourthly. As a further expression of our appreciation and gratitude, the aforesaid Colonel Kilbourne be, and is hereby elected an honorary member of the aforesaid Columbus Trades and Labor Assembly and the Columbus Building Trades Council.

JOHN F. MCNAMEE,

For the Columbus Trades and Labor Assembly.

Committee on Resolutions.

J. B. MASS, President pro tem.

WILL F. HAUCK, Secretary.

Columbus Trades and Labor Assembly.

A. J. LOCKHART, President.

HENRY WORTHINGTON, Sec.

Columbus Building Trades Council.

This resolution was passed because Colonel Kilbourne publicly refused to join with the trusts, to destroy the union labor organizations of the country, which culminated in the Steel Trust Strike of last summer.

This and other trusts are now trying to induce the working men to vote against Kilbourne because he is their friend, and because he would not join them in trying to crush out union labor.

See full report of the labor leaders pertaining to Col. Kilbourne's labor record, printed in another column.

PARTISAN MENDACITY.

In its Sunday issue the State Journal said: "Col. Kilbourne's denial of the charges made against him will lose him the election. He should have kept silent."

The charges to which it referred first appeared in the State Journal and afterward in the Republican press of the State, and charged: 1. That Col. Kilbourne committed perjury by making a false tax return. 2. That he was the enemy and oppressor of workmen. 3. That he dealt almost exclusively in convict made goods.

In a speech at the Columbus Auditorium, Col. Kilbourne, presenting facts and figures, disproved each of these charges to the satisfaction of the 6,000 people in the audience.

A man named Rife, who wrote the lying charges and who was present, admitted to other newspaper men present that Kilbourne was right and that the charges were false. The next morning he declared in the Journal: "Kilbourne admits the truth of the charges against him."

When the other newspaper men asked Rife why he made such a statement, he said: "We (Republican writers and editors) can get a Democrat every time he comes up for office. The first thing we do is to charge him with all sorts of crimes and moral obliquities. If he does not deny them we show him guilty by his silence. If he does deny them we show that he is guilty because no honest man would deny such things if they were false. Then we give him another dose and keep him guessing."

It is from this vile and infamous source that the brood of false, malicious and scurrilous charges against Col. Kilbourne emanate, which fill the Republican papers—all of them lies and many of them forgeries.

Is there a single decent, honest, high-minded voter in this city or country who will participate in this work of assassination of character? If so he is to be pitied.

WILLIAM BELL, JR.

The name of the Hon. William Bell Jr. is a household word throughout Licking county. In fact, it may be said without disparagement of any other citizen, that Mr. Bell is the best known and one of the most popular men in Central Ohio.

For a half century Mr. Bell has been before the people of Licking county and his record is an open book. He has been a public officer since reaching his majority with a few years of private life and in all that long and honorable career there is not a blemish. Mr. Bell has served the people as Sheriff of Licking county, as Mayor of the city of Newark, as Auditor of Licking county, as Secretary of the State of Ohio, as Representative in the general assembly—all with fidelity and honor.

In the House of Representatives at Columbus in the winter of 1900 Mr. Bell was a conspicuous and leading figure and through his influence much was accomplished for this community in spite of the fact that both branches of the legislature were overwhelmingly Republican. Mr. Bell has a happy way of presenting a proposition and a winning manner in approaching other members of the House. His record in the House and in the other positions which he has held shows he has always been faithful to his constituents.

It is highly important that Licking county shall have a Democratic member in the House the coming winter as it is this year that a United States Senator is to be chosen. Mr. Bell can be relied upon to represent all the people as a member of the lower house at Columbus but when it comes to the election of a United States Senator, he may be relied upon to cast his vote for the Democratic caucus nominee. Mr. Bell is safe and reliable.

Hundreds of warm personal friends in both parties are advocating the election of Mr. Bell who, as usual, when the votes are counted out on the night of November 5th next, will come out with a handsome majority. See that you vote for Mr. Bell and make his majority this time larger than ever before.

S. B. LEVINGSTON.

Mr. Sidney B. Levingston, Democratic candidate for County Commissioner, is a life long and loyal Democrat, who is well qualified for the position to which he has been nominated. Thrown upon his own resources at an early age, Sid Levingston has fought his way through life and over many adverse circumstances, single handed and alone, where many men of less fortitude and perseverance of character would have failed and given up the struggle. He early developed good business and executive ability in the management of his own affairs, and it is always a safe inference that a man who manages his own affairs well may be safely trusted in the management of public affairs. Mr. Levingston is a thoroughly honest man who pays his debts and fulfills all his obligations, and his word is as good as any man's bond with all who know him and have done business with him. Mr. Levingston is a man of strict moral habits and has an ambition to make a first class record as County Commissioner, which he assuredly will. He has hosts of personal friends in both parties on account of his manliness and well known generosity. That he is a successful vote getter his political opponents are free to admit. His great personal popularity is a fact none who know him will dispute and that he will be elected by a good round majority on November 5 is a foregone conclusion.

WHY A DEMOCRAT SHOULD VOTE STRAIGHT THIS YEAR

Although the Democratic candidates are by far the most popular from top to bottom, the edict is issued by the Republican organ that no voter of its party must compliment any Democratic candidate. At the same time the organ is making frantic efforts to get Democratic votes for its own partisan candidates, not one of whom would compliment a Democrat in casting his ballot. There never was a time in which a Democrat should be more determined to vote his own ticket straight than this year of 1901.

HOW COL. KILBOURNE STANDS.

In the Estimation of the Workingmen Who Personally Know and Respect Him.

AN HONORARY MEMBER OF ORGANIZED LABOR.

Why the Columbus Trades and Labor Assembly and Building Trades Council Colored That Honor on Him.

Columbus, O., Oct. 28. — The reckless managers of the Republican campaign, who hesitate at neither falsehood nor slander, have issued a statement that Colonel James Kilbourne, the Democratic candidate for governor, is the enemy of organized labor and of labor unions. The representatives of union labor in this city authorize the following statement of facts and truth, refuting each and every one of the Republican committee's falsehoods:

In 1899, J. K. Turner, manager of a trust espionage bureau at Cleveland, the home of Senator Hanna, wrote Colonel Kilbourne a letter asking him to contribute money for the purpose of settling spies on the labor congress which met at Detroit, under the call of President Gompers, Dec. 11, 1899. To this letter Colonel Kilbourne responded as follows:

Columbus, O., Nov. 28, 1899. J. K. Turner, Manager The Manufacturers' Information Bureau, American Trust Building, Cleveland, Ohio:

Sir—Your letter of November 22d, received during my absence from home, has just come to my attention. The proposition it contains seems to me so infamous that I shall give the letter and my reply to the public press. We have never engaged spies in our business, and certainly shall not do so against the most defenseless class with whom we have to deal.

Why should not the employees of the trusts organize as well as their employers? In whose prosperity are we most concerned? The people of this country are justly alarmed at the rapid growth of great monopolistic combinations, and none more justly so than their workmen, who, single-handed, would be the easiest victims of their power. Why should they not organize?

No, we will not pay you $15.00 to have the report of your spies on their secret sessions, and we hope there is not a manufacturer in the land who is so mean and low-spirited as to join in your dirty work.

The Kilbourne & Jacobs Manufacturing Company, President and General Manager.

The estimation in which Colonel Kilbourne is held by the members and leaders of organized labor is shown by the fact that he was unanimously elected an honorary member of the Columbus Trades and Labor Assembly, and the Columbus Building and Trades Council, and these bodies, jointly representing organized labor in the city of Columbus, presented him with an engrossed set of resolutions tendering him their heartfelt thanks for his noble defense of their rights, as follows:

"Resolutions unanimously adopted by the Columbus Trades and Labor Assembly and the Columbus Building Trades Council, in recognition of Col. James Kilbourne's defense of the rights of workmen.

"Whereas, a letter giving evidence of a base conspiracy against organized labor has been received by Col. James Kilbourne, President and General Manager of the Kilbourne & Jacobs Manufacturing Company, of this city, from one J. K. Turner, Manager of the Manufacturers' Information Bureau, of Cleveland, Ohio, seeking the co-operation and support of the aforesaid Colonel Kilbourne in a proposition which said Turner, on behalf of said Information Bureau, agrees, through the operation of a general spy system, to furnish said employers with accounts of the proceedings of secret sessions of organized labor organizations; and,

"Whereas, the sterling manhood and instinctive love of justice of Col. Kilbourne in all of his intercourse with his fellow-men, but particularly so in his dealings with workmen, revolting at a proposition so incompatible with his noble ideals, and so much at variance with his high sense of honor, he expressed himself in response thereto as follows: (See letter as above); and,

"Whereas, such a vigorous repudiation of the aforesaid proposition, and incidentally of all conspiracies against the liberties of workmen, together with its publication and exposure, coming from such a source, is of inestimable value and benefit to labor's cause:

A Gay Time.

Cleveland, O., Oct. 21.—It being rumored that some of the members of the state board of equalization of railroad assessments had been taken to California in a private car at the expense of the railroads last year, a gentleman in position to know who was asked about it, in reply he wrote under date of June 18, 1901, the following from Columbus:

"The trip was taken during about 30 days covering the latter part of April and the first half or more of May, 1900. The invitation was extended by Mr. W. O. Johnson, of Chicago, general counsel for the Erie Railroad company. The four members of the state board of equalization for railroads were the only persons in this city, so far as I know, invited to go on the trip. They were at that time Hon. I. B. Cameron, treasurer of the state; Hon. W. D. Guilbert, auditor of state; Hon. J. M. Sheets, attorney general, and Hon. R. E. Kayler, commissioner of railroads and telegraphs. The board remains the same at this date with the exception of the railroad commissioner, Mr. Kayler having been succeeded by Hon. J. C. Morris. All the members of the board went on the trip except Mr. Cameron, who was unable to go on account of sickness. The trip was made in a private car (I presume Mr. Johnson's) and cost the guests nothing. A Mr. C. W. Baker, an attorney of Alliance, was also one of the party.

"The trip was to California, going by the southern route and returning by the Central Pacific, through Salt Lake City, Denver, etc. The party dined on the car and fared sumptuously. Nothing was spared by Mr. Johnson to make the trip enjoyable, and according to the statements of members of the party, he succeeded fully. All the expenses were borne by the host, who presumably acted as the agent of the Erie railroad in making the liberal disbursements necessary to suit generous hospitality.

"In conversation with some of the members of the party after their return, I never heard them deny that they were the guests of the Erie railway, although Mr. Guilbert claimed that they were indebted for the trip to the friendship existing between Mr. Johnson and himself.

"I might add, although you have not asked for this information, that it is the practice of all state officials to carry railroad passes. Some of them make allowance for the possession of these passes in rendering their expense accounts to the state, but I have heard of others who did not. The entire field is a fruitful one."

These facts will largely account for the fact that both Governor Nash and Senator Hanna declared at the Delaware meeting that they had "nothing to say about state affairs, and taxation."

KILLED HIS BROTHER

Mistaking The Man in The Tree For a
Coon.Tragedy Occurred in Mary Ann Township Wednesday Night
The Victim Being Charles Richards--His Brother Frank Is Almost Crazy With Grief Over the Accident.

One of the saddest accidents that has ever occurred in Licking county was that which happened between seven and eight o'clock Monday evening, about a mile west of Ben, in Mary Ann township, the victim being Mr. Charles Richards, a prominent farmer of that township, aged about 40 years.

Richards lived in a house on his father's farm, while his brother, Frank lives on a farm owned by him, and his wife about one mile west of his father's.

Frank is about three years his brother's senior, and each owned a couple of fine coon dogs, with which they frequently engaged in the sport of coon hunting.

Monday evening they went out hunting, and about the hour mentioned, Charles' dogs had treed a coon on a hill about one-fourth of a mile from Charles' house. Charles went up the tree to secure the coon and at this time Frank came over the hill in the opposite direction, his dogs running ahead of him.

When near the tree in which Charles was heard and partially saw the four dogs at the foot of the tree. It was too dark for Charles to see his brother, and even if he had he would probably not have anticipated the shooting.

When Frank heard a rustling in the tree he of course thought it was the coon, and bringing his gun to his shoulder, fired.

The shot took effect and a heavy body came tumbling down through the branches of the tree. The hunter rushed forward to secure his game, when what was his horror to discover that the body was that of a human being, his brother.

He instantly raised an alarm, and a young man named Sudduth soon arrived on the scene. Soon others arrived and the body was taken to the house, about one-fourth of a mile away on a sled.

The dead man's father was first to his son's side, but was so shocked that he almost collapsed.

Dr. Dawson of Hanover, was summoned, but it was seen that the unfortunate man was dead. The entire load of BB shot had struck him on the right side, penetrating the lungs and brain, his death having been almost instantaneous.

Bowers and Bradley were notified and with the coroner, were on the scene as soon as possible. The undertakers prepared the body for burial, after the coroner had viewed the remains.

Coroner Evans held an inquest at the home and rendered a verdict of accidental shooting.

The deceased was a married man, and leaves a wife but no children.

The unfortunate brother, Frank, is distracted with grief and grave fears are entertained that the terrible accident may unsettle his mind.

FOURTEEN SHOT DEAD.

Whites and Blacks Mix Up in a Louisiana Settlement--They Participate in a Bloody Battle--A Negro Defied a Southern Constable.

New Orleans, Oct. 29.—The Baltimore race riot is practically ended and, although the first reports of the trouble were highly exaggerated, the clash was one of the bloodiest in the history of the state. Ten persons, nine colored and one white, are dead. There is great unrest at the scene of the trouble and while there are no outward cautions are being taken by the whites signs of a renewal of hostilities, pre- to prevent another outbreak.

The dead were buried by the Sheriff's posse this morning.

The negro Lott who refused to take out a license to run a restaurant at the Live Oak camp meeting caused dered him to take out a license or shut the trouble. When the constable or up his place, the negro became impudent and told the constable to do his worst. The officer gathered a posse and started for Live Oak. Lott was apprised of its approach and with a number of friends, barricaded himself behind the counters of his place. When the posse reached the restaurant they were fired upon. They returned the fire and the fighting became general, negroes on the outside coming to the assistance of their barricaded brothers. Being unable to dislodge the negroes, a member of the posse fired the restaurant. Lott rushed out and discharged his shot gun into the posse, killing Joe Seals. Another negro shot a posse man named Elliott through the stomach.

All of the male members of the barricaded party then tried to escape, but were shot down by the whites. While the battle raged a negro preacher issued from the church with a shotgun but his brains were blown out before he could raise his weapon. When the fighting was over five dead colored men, three women and one child who was with its mother, were found. Two of the women perished in the burning restaurant.

Fully 2,000 shots were fired. A number of wounded negroes got away.

CONTINUED—The case of Ohio vs. F. L. Palmer, for assault and battery on Harry Boone, was called for trial this afternoon before Squire Atcherley, and was continued until Friday at 1 p. m.

Have some special bargains in city property. Finely located. Reese R. Jones.

New Orleans, Oct. 29.—As the result of a race riot in Washington parish, this state, three white men and 11 negroes were killed. The news of the dreadful affray was brought to Amice City by Cornelius Mixon, who, with his mother, left from near Franklinton. He stated that white men rode into Franklinton at 3 o'clock in the morning asking for help, saying that the negroes were up in arms threatening to exterminate the whites. The scene of the trouble is at or near Balltown, where a negro was burned last week for criminally assaulting a white woman. This was not the cause, however, of the battle in which three white men and 11 negroes were killed and several wounded. Mr. Mixon saw and talked with many men from the scene, and they said more and worse trouble was expected, as armed men were flocking to the scene and it was reported the blacks were equally active in preparing for a battle.

A posse left Franklinton for the scene in charge of Sheriff Simmons, and from all over the country armed men were hurrying to the same place. A Mr. Carter said 100 men were probably under arms in Washington parish. The trouble occurred at a negro camp meeting and the origin, as near as can be ascertained, was as follows:

Creer Lot, a negro, was running a refreshment stand, and a constable, a white man, name not given, went to him and asked for his license. He had none, and became impudent, cursed the constable and defied him. The constable withdrew and obtained assistance. He returned with several white men, when the negro, Lott, rushed out and fired point blank into the crowd, killing Joe Seals and Charles Elliott. The whites returned the fire and killed Lott. Then a negro preacher named Connolly rushed out of a house with gun in hand, attempting to shoot, when he was killed, and his daughter was killed. It is said, accidentally. In the shooting which followed another white man was killed and E. H. Thompson wounded, and seven or eight negroes killed.

Balltown is about 20 miles from Franklinton, in a sparsely settled section. It is isolated and almost entirely cut off from the outside world. Franklinton is 27 miles east of this place and there are no telegraph or telephone lines.

Another Story.

Columbia, Miss., Oct. 29.—Six negroes were shot to death at Live Oak church, about three miles from Balltown, La., one white man killed and another believed to be fatally wounded, and two negro women and a child were burned almost to cinders in Lott's restaurant, which had been fired by the whites to dislodge Lott and others, who were firing at the whites from behind the counters. The negroes have taken to the woods and no further trouble is apprehended at present.

EXPANSION

The Aim of the Big Steel Corporation
Schwab Inspects Illinois Steel Plant.

Chicago, Oct. 29.—Charles M. Schwab, president of the United States Steel corporation, spent considerable time at South Chicago in inspecting the plant of the Illinois Steel company. While Mr. Schwab's visit was one of inspection, in it is involved more than the mere looking over of the furnaces and the converters. His chief purpose was to look over the advantages offered by the company's property in Chicago for expansion. The managers of the big steel combination intended, it is said, to concentrate their plants at strategic points, and of all the great mills owned by the giant trust none has the elbow room of the South Chicago plant, which has an immense stretch of land along the beach of Lake Michigan, where ore from Lake Erie is deliverable from the boats.

Another Combination.

Youngstown, O., Oct. 29.—With the opening of the new year will be organized one of the greatest steel corporations in the world. Capitalists in this city and throughout the Mahoning valley, who are experienced in the steel business, will be largely interested as stockholders in the new corporation. The men who were largely responsible for the great success of the underlying steel companies constituting the United States Steel corporation, and who disposed of their holdings, will be prominently identified with the new company. Independent steel corporations which have refused large offers to turn their business and plants over to the United States Steel corporation will be large stockholders in the new organization. H. C. Frick of Pittsburgh will, it is said, be president of the new corporation.

Six Gunners Injured.

Leavenworth, Kan., Oct. 29.—By an explosion of a Colt's automatic firing gun at Fort Leavenworth, Captain Charles T. Menoher and five men of the Twenty-eighth battery of field artillery were wounded, three severely. The gun, a new one, was being tested, and was allowed to become too hot, and when a shell came into the breech after firing the shell exploded, tearing out the breech, fragments of which struck the injured men. These are the injured: Private Snider, leg, severe; Private Morphet, arm, severe; Private Rieder, arm, severe; Private Hayes, leg, slight; Captain Menoher, hand burned, wrist injured; Private Jones, hand, slight.

West Indian Sugar Bounties.

London, Oct. 29.—The West India committee has issued a despondent circular announcing that the invitation sent to the United States to participate in the conference on sugar bounties will involve further delay, and that the conference is not likely to assemble this year. "It is difficult to avoid the suspicion," says the circular, "that these constant postponements may be had in view of the impossibility of any legislation affecting bounties until after the beet campaign of 1902-3. If this surmise be correct, the position of some of the West Indian islands promises to be critical."

Schley For President.

Rich Hill, Mo., Oct. 29.—A Schley club has been formed here by some of Admiral Schley's Democratic admirers. Strong resolutions endorsing him for the next Democratic presidential nomination were passed.

On Probation.

Boston, Oct. 29.—Alonso J. Whitman, an ex-state senator of Minnesota, who pleaded guilty a few days ago to one count of larceny, was placed on probation in superior court. It is understood that restitution has been made to the persons from whom defendant obtained money illegally.

Registration in Ohio Cities.

Cincinnati, Oct. 29.—The registration of voters in Cleveland, Columbus, Cincinnati and Toledo shows loss, compared with 1900, as follows: In Cleveland 14,791, Columbus 2,022, Cincinnati 5,545, Toledo 5,541.

FOUTZ

ZANESVILLE SOLDIER SENTENCED TO DIE, ESCAPES.

Young Man Was in Prison in the Philippines for the Murder of His Sweetheart.

Washington, Oct. 29.—The war department is informed that Phineas Foutz, a soldier, convicted of murder in the Philippines and under sentence of death, has escaped. Foutz was a soldier in the regular army and enlisted from Zanesville, O. He murdered a Filipino woman, and after his conviction the case was taken to the president. It was the only case where in President McKinley approved a death sentence upon an American soldier serving in the Philippines. The execution of Foutz would have taken place some time ago had he not escaped from prison.

Crowd After a Negro.

Carbondale, Ill., Oct. 29.—Gracie Short, 12, daughter of George W. Short, a trackman, came to this city on a shopping tour. On returning she sought a ride with a stranger, and in the wagon was Thomas Moberly, a colored man, aged 35. Near her home, which is less than two miles from the city, she alighted and was soon followed by the negro, who overtook her and brutally attacked her. Though the girl escaped, she received two ugly wounds. The negro came to Carbondale and was attempting to leave the city on a freight train when caught. He was arraigned before Justice Clayton and was readily identified by the child. The crowd in the room became furious and several persons attacked the negro, inflicting severe wounds.

Father Crowley's Reply.

Chicago, Oct. 29.—Rev. Jeremiah J. Crowley, the Catholic priest, two days since excommunicated for his charges against Auxiliary Bishop Muldoon of the Chicago diocese, has given out a copy of a long letter addressed by him to Cardinal Martinelli. He reiterates his charges and refuses to retract them. He also claims that notice of the sentence of excommunication has not been properly served upon him, and asserts that he has been made to suffer for telling of what he declares are the deeds of others.

Advance in Wages.

Pottsville, Pa., Oct. 29.—The Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron company made a general advance in the wages of the employees at the repair shops in Pottsville and at the storage yards at East Mifflin. Laborers' wages have been advanced from $1.20 to $1.35 per day, boiler makers' from $2.20 to $2.50 per day. The molders received their third advance in a comparatively short time, they now getting $2.80 per day. The advance affects 40 hands.

Want Shorter Hours.

Philadelphia, Oct. 29.—The skilled laborers in all the paper mills of Philadelphia made formal demand for a shortening of their workday from 72 to 65 hours a week, without reduction of pay. In a number of the mills the demand was refused, and in a few others was held under consideration. In but one local mill was the demand of the men agreed to. When the mill owners refused the men went on strike, but only one mill was closed down completely.

McGovern's Challenge.

Chicago, Oct. 29.—Terry McGovern, the featherweight champion, who is at present in Chicago, challenged any fighter in the world to meet him at 122 pounds for a wager of $5,000. Benny Yanger of Chicago is named in particular. McGovern says he is becoming tired of the claims that he has outgrown the featherweight class, and has issued the challenge in order to prove that he is still the legitimate featherweight champion.

Murderous Work of Bandits.

Gadsden, La., Oct. 29.—At Alabama City, two miles west of this place, J. C. White, T. M. Entekrin and G. L. Grubbs were held up, robbed of their valuables and murderously assaulted. White was beaten over the head with a stone weighing three pounds, while Grubbs had his only eye knocked out and his skull crushed. He will die. John Holland, Will Inglett and Bob Prince, who, the officers claim, committed the crime, were arrested.

Mrs. H. S. Wagstaff, President Kansas City, Mo., Blue Ribbon Club, Tells How She was Cured of Severe Bearing-Down Pains, Backache, etc., by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—After suffering for months with a complication of female troubles, causing severe bearing-down pains and backache, feeling constantly fatigued and unable to stand up without great weariness, great relief came to me when a friend advised me to use Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which I did. It was worth more to me than all other medicines I ever tried, which only seemed to poison my system, while your Compound healed me. I took your pills in connection, and they seemed to help cast the poison and waste matter out of the system. I used the Compound for six weeks and was then completely cured, and while this was eighteen months ago I have had no relapse, but have enjoyed the best of health ever since. I wish that every poor dragged-down, suffering woman might know that it would bring them health to consult you and use Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I always do what I can to tell them of it." —Mrs. H. S. WAGSTAFF, 1330 McGee St., Kansas City, Mo.

THE AVALON

New Apartment House at Corner of Fifth and West Main Streets, Nearing Completion.

Among the many and recent great improvements that have been made to this growing and flourishing city of Newark in the way of new dwelling houses, there is none more important than the "Avalon" apartment house, which has just been erected at the corner of West Main and Fifth streets, by Messrs. C. W. Miller, the well known attorney, and Mr. Alva Wilcox, the builder and contractor. In fact the erection of the "Avalon" marks a distinct era in the building of modern homes in the city of Newark, for it is the first thoroughly up-to-date and modern apartment house with all the latest and best improvements of every kind for convenience and beauty that Newark boasts. The building was designed and built by Mr. Alva Wilcox himself, one of the owners, and while it is especially designed for the comfort and convenience of its occupants, its large size, handsome exterior and general architectural beauty, makes it a marked addition to our beautiful city.

The "Avalon" in general terms, is a large structure 50 feet deep and 150 feet broad, built of fine terra cotta brick, trimmed with beautiful stone, and is three stories high, in addition to the basement, where the heating and lighting apparatus are contained. The majestic front of the building is broken by handsome bay windows that add much to the beauty of the exterior. The building comprises in general fourteen apartments or flats, eight of them with four living rooms and a bath, and six of them with five living rooms and a bath. In addition there is a handsome office and four store rooms on the first floor. Each apartment contains a parlor, sitting room, bed room and bath.

The immense building is heated throughout with steam, and the plant is one of the largest steam heating plants in the city. The occupants of the rooms are furnished with heat, water and a gas range in each kitchen.

All the rooms in the building are papered with up-to-date paper furnished by Mr. W. C. Miller, and each room is papered with a different design. All the decorations in the building were done by Mr. Fred Roesser and are elegant in design, credit on the workmanship. The bath rooms are fitted up very handsomely with porcelain enameled tubs and lavatory, all being supplied with nickel-plated trimmings. The owners of the building furnish a janitor, who cleans and lights the halls. The building is wired for electric light and plumbed for natural gas. The fixtures are all oxidized combination fixtures, and the entire building throughout is a credit to the city.

MISS NELLIE LEWIS

A Former Newark Girl, Receives Many Offers of Marriage.

Miss Lewis Lived in this City a Few Years Ago—Scores of Suitors Offer to Wed the Woman Who Won Big Breach Of Promise Suit Against Sam Strong.

Laid at the feet of Miss Nellie Lewis, the former Newark girl, whose breach of promise suit against the late Sam Strong was settled by Mrs. Strong for $31,000, are a hundred proposals of marriage. They come from more than half the states in the Union and some of them are strangely unique, while others are quite laughable.

But they have all been refused, for Miss Lewis will never wed, so she says, and the love missives will remain unanswered.

From the time that the news went abroad that the damage suit, which had been pending in the court for some time, of Miss Lewis against Sam Strong had been settled, says the Denver, Col., Sunday Post, letters have been pouring in with every mail, and even the letter carrier on that beat has threatened to resign if there was not a change.

Nearly all of the letters that come are love letters, and the writers are desirous of an immediate marriage. A few of them come from real estate agents, insurance men, piano dealers and furniture men, but the majority are from men who seek her hand in marriage.

These letters come addressed in every conceivable manner. Some are sent to Cripple Creek, others to Denver and not a few come in care of the attorneys in the case and the district court. But yesterday one was forwarded from Denver. It was from a man in West Virginia. He had heard that Miss Lewis had won her suit, so to speak, and hastened to offer congratulations. At the same time he desired to open correspondence with a view to matrimony.

While they are written under one pretext and another, there is the same object exposed before the writer closes—marriage. Some of them come boldly to the point in the beginning, while others adopt the old method and use the postscript plan, believing perhaps that the girl will read the postscript before she does the letter. And if she does the chances are that the other part of the missive will never be perused.

But not all the proposals Miss Lewis receives are by mail. Not a few of them have been in person. There are at least a dozen men who have traveled from Kansas and Iowa to tell to her their love. Like the writers of the letters, their excuses for calling the first time have been many and varied, but in the end their business has been told, and like the others they have been refused.

One rather unique proposal which Miss Lewis has received during the past few days is from C. F. Kinzer of Wyethville, Va. According to the letter, Mr. Kinzer is a practicing physician, and while going from his home to Washington, D. C., had to change trains. The train which he was to take to the capital was late and he took occasion to stroll down on the beach. There written upon the sand, he says, were the words:

"Miss Nellie Lewis, Colorado Springs, Colo."

Womanly curiosity had compelled him to write to her, said he, and he had made up his mind that if the girl whose name was inscribed upon the sands of the seashore was living he would willingly place his hand and heart at her feet. A girl whose name had withstood the ocean waves he thought good enough to link with his, and if she would but say the word he would wend his way to Colorado Springs and carry her away to his old Virginia home.

A New York man who bears the same name as Miss Lewis said that he was arranging for a trip to Paris, and that if she would but accept his hand in marriage they would journey thither together on their honeymoon. He had read her story in the New York papers and had become convinced that she was the girl for him.

A Kansas man—in fact there are a number of Kansas men—asks her hand in marriage and tells her that while he has been wedded once and his first wife was untrue to him, he is sure that she will remain constant. He feels that to wed her would be the fulfillment of his life's dream. The maid herself says that the dream will never be realized.

And of Kansas it may be said there are numerous proposals. Kansas appears to have taken the lead in this matter, as she does in others, and the bids for Miss Lewis' hand from the Sunflower state are many indeed. Illinois, Iowa, Kentucky, Tennessee, Ohio, Michigan, New York, Colorado, Wyoming, Minnesota and a dozen others come in for their share, but they cannot equal Kansas. Missouri and Texas alone have not been heard from, but returns are usually late in coming from there, and it is but reasonable to suppose they will both come to the front ere long and offer one or more on Love's altar.

"I shall never wed," said Miss Lewis in speaking of the numerous proposals she has received. "I have had trouble enough in the past, and shall remain with my younger sister in my home—my home! how sweet the word sounds!—all the days of my life."

A good resolution, you say, if she will but stick to it, and one talking with her now becomes convinced that she means what she says.

From a menial position paying $3 a week to the command of thousands from a home of want and abject poverty to a luxuriously furnished residence in a pleasant part of the city, Miss Lewis has gone with a single step. Enough, one would think to turn the head of almost any poor girl, but it is not so with Nellie Lewis. She will remain the same.

This week and next workmen will be busily engaged in putting down carpets, hanging curtains—the best that money can buy—and putting in furniture to make everything ready for the coming of Miss Lewis and her family. On November 1 the new home will be occupied. It is located at 810 South Cascade avenue, Colorado Springs, Col. From the squalid district on Rio Grande street to Cascade avenue is quite a change, indeed. When the change does come Miss Lewis will be happy for once in her life, and this happiness will be shared by the father, mother, brother and sisters.

"For months, yes, years," said Miss Lewis, "my sisters and I have been making fancy work and Battenberg in the hope that some day we might have a pretty home and use it. The time has come and it is the greatest joy of my life. I shall supervise the arrangement of household goods and see that everything is placed to suit me."

Everything in the house will be new, Miss Lewis said yesterday that all of the old furniture would be left behind. She has already purchased most of the furnishings, and they are elegant. Every bit of furniture and bric-a-brac will be in place before there is a change, and it will be arranged to suit the taste of Nellie. There is none to say her nay, and she is happy in the thought that she has a perfect right to do as she pleases.

It is quite probable that she and her mother, together with the sisters, will occupy the house alone. Her father and brother will perhaps go to California and engage in business. If they are successful the mother will follow and the pretty house will be left to the girls.

After furnishing the house and getting everything in readiness, Miss Lewis will have at least $15,000 in cash. This will be loaned out upon the advice of her attorney with good security and the income will be quite sufficient to keep herself and sister.

Miss Lewis was born in Newark, Ohio, in 1881, and came with her parents from that place to Colorado Springs in 1892. She has resided here ever since, with the exception of one trip the family took to California. She is a pretty girl, with dark hair and expressive blue eyes. She is of petite form and very attractive. She is disposed to be quiet, but is a bright conversationalist.

The happiest day of her life will dawn, she says, when she leaves the place where she has been living and

STATE NEWS

HAPPENINGS IN ALL PARTS OF OHIO.

All Sorts of Buckeye News Items Boiled So that Only Real Facts Remain.

Columbus—Jonas Pletsch, a meat and fish dealer, and Wm. Segal and Wm. Schneider, were accidentally locked up in a big box at the Pletsch establishment and were almost frozen to death. They were rescued just in time.

Toledo—Wm. Garvey, of Chicago, had both ears torn off and was otherwise terribly injured in a runaway accident here.

Lorain—Mike Reagan was cut in twain by an automatic circular saw at the steel plant. He tried to pass between two saws, when a red hot rail shot in and plained him fast. The saw then cut him in two.

Springfield—A mass meeting of citizens was held in this city last night looking to the establishment of a new shirt factory, to employ 300 or 400 persons. A. H. Jackson, who is the proprietor of similar factories in Fremont and Sandusky, is the promoter.

Sandusky—Miss Lizzie Nobil, aged 18, daughter of M. Nobil, a wealthy merchant, has left her father. From her mother's residence she issued a manifest to the press of Sandusky, in which she stated that she repudiated her father, and swore eternal loyalty to her mother. Some time ago Mr. Nobil secured a divorce. Two weeks ago he married a Philadelphia widow with two children. The girl objected to the control of a step-mother. She also said that her father was gruff and cross to her.

Lancaster—In Clear Creek township, this county, are 92 voters, and they all belong to the Conrad and Posaugh families. The first members came to the county when it was yet a wilderness and settled on the tract of land that is now Clearcreek Township. The two families, up to the present generation, have been staunch Democrats and hard workers for their party. Of the 92 members 86 are Democrats. The remaining six, owing to a misunderstanding recently, are temporarily Republicans, but they helped their relatives to charter a train to come over with a brass band to hear Colonel Kilbourne deliver his address Saturday, and after shaking hands with that gentleman immediately began cheering to make up for lost time.

Pindlay—A three-wheeled carriage is the turnout contrived by a Pindlay horseman, George Rummell. The vehicle's lone front wheel is a small one, directly in front and under the body of the buggy. The rear arrangement is similar to any other buggy. The result is a carriage of exceptionally easy riding, neat and compact.

Lancaster—Steam will be turned on the big gas well in Hocking County that caught fire Saturday night, the owners hoping thus to subdue the flame. An 8,000,000 foot well was drilled in Boone township today.

Bellefontaine—Ex-Marshall I. C. Colbert, of West Mansfield, while shaking hickory nuts from a tree Sunday, had an attack of heart trouble and fell 20 and formation, and showed not the slightest lesion. The doctors say every organ in the body was in a normal condition at the time of his death.

The remains of Czolgosz have been interred in the prison plot and before 10 o'clock tonight the prison authorities say the body will have been entirely consumed with quick lime. No mound marks the place of burial and there is nothing to indicate that Czolgosz ever lived.

CURTAIN

Drops on the Last Scene of a Dreadful Drama—Czolgosz' Last Hours on Earth.

Auburn, N. Y., Oct. 29.—The curtain has dropped on the final scene in the last act of a dreadful drama that portrayed the passing of a nation's beloved chief executive at the hands of a miserable assassin. The slayer of McKinley is dead. Leon Czolgosz, shortly after 7 a. m., today, yielded up his life in the electric chair in expiation of a crime that startled civilization. He faced death stolidly. He showed no strength of love for kin, nor did he turn to any of those higher considerations which ordinarily claim the thoughts of men occupying his position. He may have suffered untold torture, but, outwardly, he seemed sullen and indifferent.

From an artistic and mechanical standpoint the execution was a success. Within a few minutes after the current had been turned on the physicians announced that the assassin's spirit had winged its flight into eternity. When all was over, Warden Mead issued a brief statement descriptive of the last scenes and the execution. In the latter he was assisted by Walter N. Thayer, former warden of Dannemora prison, and Superintendent Collins of Auburn penitentiary.

Electrician Davis turned on the fatal current. In the room adjoining the death chamber was a table upon which the corpse of Czolgosz was placed for the autopsy. This completed, the body was laid in a coffin of plain pine, stained black.

Only 26 persons, the number prescribed by law witnessed the execution. Czolgosz was dressed in a very simple manner for the death chair, a pair of black trousers, a loose gray shirt and a pair of gray socks completing the outfit. He wore no undergarments and no shoes. The left leg of the trousers was slit at the bottom to permit the free adjustment of the electrode, and the shirt was open at the neck. The plan of burning his clothes and papers was carried out immediately after the execution.

The state is not to surrender possession of his body, and by sundown it will have been secretly interred in ground controlled by the officials of Auburn prison.

The Last Interviews.

Czolgosz during the night had his last interviews with Superintendent Collins and with his brother and brother-in-law. Both of the interviews were brief and the interviewers did most of the talking until the question of religion was mentioned, when Czolgosz broke from his seeming lethargy and violently denounced the church and the clergy and made his relatives promise that there should be no service for him, living or dead.

When the brother and brother-in-law arrived Superintendent Collins took them down to the condemned man's cell. "There was no demonstration when they met. Czolgosz merely stopped to greet them from his steel cage and said, 'Hello'."

The brother ventured the remark: "I wish you would tell us, Leon, who got you into this scrape." The assassin answered in a slow, hesitating manner: "No one. Nobody had anything to do with it but me."

"That is not how you were brought up," said the brother, "and you ought to tell us everything now."

"I haven't anything to tell," he answered, in a surly manner.

"Do you want to see the priests again?" asked his brother. He answered with more vehemence than he had previously shown: "No, damn them; don't send them here again; I don't want them."

The brother-in-law interjected here: "That's right, Leon."

The brother looked rather disturbed by the answer. Then stepping up, close to the bars, the condemned man said: "And don't you have any praying over me when I'm dead? I don't want it. I don't want any of their religion."

There was a painful pause of a few minutes and then the relatives resumed casual conversation with him, to which he replied in monosyllables until the brother-in-law suggested, much to Superintendent Collins' surprise, that he and the brother be permitted to witness the execution. Before the superintendent could reply, Leon Czolgosz said: "Yes, Mr. Superintendent, let them see me killed." Superintendent Collins told the trio in emphatic terms that no such thing could be allowed, and ordered them to say goodby.

Czolgosz's Remains.

The body of Czolgosz was not removed from Auburn. Superintendent of State Prisons Cornelius V. Collins and Warden J. Warren Mead, after hours of controversy with Czolgosz's brother, succeeded in obtaining from him the following relinquishment of the family claims to the remains of the assassin: "I hereby authorize you, as warden of Auburn prison, to dispose of the body of my brother, Leon F. Czolgosz, by burying it in the cemetery attached to the prison, as provided by the law of the state of New York. This request is made upon the express understanding that no part of the remains will be given to any person or society, but that the entire body will be buried in accordance with the law in the cemetery attached to the prison."

When Dr. Carlos F. MacDonald and Prison Physician Gerin visited the cell during the evening they found the prisoner suffering from extreme nervousness that manifested itself in dilated eyes and free-flowing perspiration. When they finished the examination the prisoner turned sullenly from them and retired into the corner of his cell, refusing to talk. They gave him no treatment, and were of the opinion that, while he was very nervous, he did not show signs of absolute collapse. Czolgosz had just concluded a lengthy interview with Fathers Fudzinski and Hickey. The approach of death seemed to awaken no greater consciousness of his position. He again turned his back upon the priests who came to urge him to confess and repent, and was undemonstrative in the presence of those of his kin who came to say a last farewell to him.

When alone with his guards he remained silent, and passed the time either lying on his bunk or in slowly pacing up and down the cell. He talked, when addressed, to those admitted near his cell but with his old deliberation and slowness. If he knew strong emotion at any time he was successful in concealing it from those who watched over him.

The prison guards combatted the suggestion that his stolidity was a case of fear and that the hour of execution would find him helplessly broken down. The prisoner suffered no loss of appetite and ate the usual allowance of food given to prisoners. Throughout his entire confinement he has had a good appetite, and his physical condition has been excellent. He weighed about 155 pounds, which was thought to represent a slight gain since his arrest.

THE CRIME

For Which Leon F. Czolgosz Today Died—The September Tragedy Briefly Recalled.

Auburn, N. Y., Oct. 29.—History's blackest page shows white when compared with the atrocious crime for which Leon F. Czolgosz was executed today. Inspired by anarchistic ideas, Czolgosz went to Buffalo, where President McKinley was a visitor to the Pan American exposition determined to murder the executive. Late on the afternoon of September 6, the President was receiving the people in the Temple of Music in the exposition grounds. In the line of people who were passing the President was Czolgosz. As the President turned to receive him, he extended his right hand in a friendly manner. Czolgosz thrust the extended hand aside and raising a revolver which he carried concealed in a handkerchief fired two shots at the President. The assassin made no attempt to escape and was speedily disarmed and hurried away. His only words were that "He had done his duty." The wounded President was taken to the Emergency Hospital in the grounds where an operation was performed. One bullet struck President McKinley in the chest and the second entered the abdomen. Only one bullet was found. After the operation, the President was removed to the home of Mr. Milburn and the best medical attendance sought. For several days the President gave every promise of recovering, but early on the following Friday morning a relapse occurred. For 24 hours President McKinley remained at death's door. At 2:15 Saturday morning, September 14, he breathed his last. "God's will be done, not ours," were among his last words.

President Roosevelt was sworn into the office of President that afternoon in Buffalo, the Cabinet being present. The funeral obsequies were begun in Buffalo on Sunday when the body lay in state in the city hall. All the Nation mourned and everywhere there was outward manifestation of the National grief. The body was taken to Washington to the White House and on Tuesday services were held in the rotunda of the capitol. The cabinet and both branches of congress were present. That evening the body was taken to Canton, Ohio, the old home of the McKinleys. The day of the interment, Thursday, September 20, was observed throughout the Nation as a day of mourning.

Czolgosz was indicted and arraigned in court in Buffalo on September 16, and as the feeling was so bitter against him, attorneys refused to take the case. The bar association finally made the appointments in the interest of justice. Eight days later the trial began. It lasted only two days but only a little over eight hours actual time. No defense was made. The jury returned a verdict of "guilty." Two days later he was sentenced to die in the week beginning October 28. He was removed to Auburn prison on September 26.

Czolgosz was born in Detroit, Mich., about 26 years ago. He received a common school education and later took up his studies in a church school. He never married.

Czolgosz did not have a trade but hired out as a laborer. He showed a moody disposition and was interested in anarchistic writings. On confession he stated the crime was one of his own doing and that no one conspired with him. His parents and brothers live in Cleveland.

CRITICAL

QUERYS CONDUCTED BY CAPTAIN LEMLY.

Admiral Schley Again on the Stand Today, But Nothing New or Sensational Developed.

Washington, Oct. 29.—In the Schley inquiry court Admiral Schley was on the stand all morning, today, but nothing new or sensational developed.

When the court of inquiry adjourned yesterday Admiral Schley was somewhat exhausted from his long siege on the witness stand. He was in good trim, however, when he appeared this morning. There was a remarkable drop in attendance at the investigation. The number of spectators was smaller than at any session in the last three weeks.

Washington, Oct. 29. — Admiral Schley was cross-examined very closely by Judge Advocate Lemly in the court of inquiry. Nothing sensational developed, and the only outburst in the court occurred when Mr. Rayner, Admiral Schley's counsel, objected to a line of inquiry of the judge advocate designed to criticize Admiral Schley's alleged failure to formulate a plan of battle, with the declaration that as Admiral Sampson was in command his junior had no right to plan an order of battle.

Admiral Schley made a statement of the effect of the fire of the respect five fleets at Santiago showing that 30 per cent of the hits suffered by the enemy were scored by the Brooklyn's 5-inch guns, while his ship received 70 per cent of the hits from the Spanish ships. Captain Lemly's cross-examination was very searching. Admiral Schley, however, appeared to be unflinching throughout the examination, frankly admitting on several occasions that he could not remember little details after the lapse of three years. One line of inquiry which the judge advocate tried to press to show that Admiral Schley did not proceed "with dispatch" from Key West to Cienfuegos by attempting to contrast the speed made between Charleston and Key West with the time between Key West and Cienfuegos, was curtailed by a decision of the court, which confined the questions to the time subsequent to May 19, the day on which the flying squadron left Key West.

The judge advocate in his cross-examination dwelt upon the interview between Admiral Sampson and Commodore Schley at Key West before the departure of the flying squadron, at which the latter testified that Admiral Sampson instructed him not to expose his ships to shore batteries until the Spanish fleet had been destroyed, on the fact that Admiral Schley issued no written order of battle, on the question of coaling off Cienfuegos, on the steps Schley took there to ascertain the presence of the Spanish fleet, on the retrograde movement, the firing upon the Colon and the battle of Santiago.

When Admiral Schley is dismissed from the stand two other witnesses will be called in his behalf. Admiral Barker and Captain Thomas Borden. The latter was an officer of the marine corps aboard the Brooklyn. The judge advocate then will call his witnesses in rebuttal, of whom there are understood to be more than 15, and it is probable that Admiral Schley's counsel will call witnesses in rebuttal.

TUB TRUTHS.

A DROP of ink will color a whole glass of water. It is an inch of yeast which makes a pan of bread rise, and a single cake of soap containing unabsorbed alkali can ruin a hundred times its cost in laces and fine embroidery. After all, is it wise to take such risks with common soap? Of course you can get along without Ivory Soap. So can a wagon without axle grease—but it goes hard.

SPEECH MAY BE TOO FREE

By HENRY CODMAN POTTER, Protestant Episcopal Bishop of New York

WOULD it not seem that there is something wrong in the heritage which has come down to us through history? Howsoever deep our admiration, it is impossible not to recognize that certain elements of our constitution are the products of brains which DREW THEIR INSPIRATION FROM THE TEACHINGS OF THE FRENCH REVOLUTION. To the men that made the constitution the modern anarchist might have been a figure as monstrous as impossible. But some of the tenets of anarchy were not wrong, in the opinion of the makers of the constitution. In fact, if seen in the light thus thrown upon them, the principles of anarchy today are not so extravagant.

One of these is free speech. But can there be any such thing as absolutely free speech? If it were so, would we then stretch out our hand to slay him who would enter our homes and poison the minds of our half-grown sons and daughters? There should be no freedom of speech in any such unlicensed sense more than there should be freedom to handle gunpowder as any irresponsible person may see fit. There are laws to govern the latter, and if it be our right and duty to make laws to guard against this danger it is equally our right and OUR DUTY TO ERECT SAFEGUARDS AGAINST THE LICENSE OF SPEECH.

But we are not prepared to expel the false prophets, nor to muzzle free speech, nor to burn incendiary books. Treatment of this kind, even were we prepared for it, would be essentially superficial. We must delve deeper in order to find a remedy. Then we will in all probability find that these conditions have been created by ignorance.

From all parts of the old world there is a constant march to these shores of a class of radical socialists. They are ignorant of our institutions and our system of government. We must have a great system of free education, a system that will reach and enlighten the perverted minds of all such persons of whatever age, so as to give them a true comprehension of the principles underlying our government.

AND WE MUST REPRESENT IN OUR LIVES AN EXAMPLE OF SINCERE MANHOOD AND ENLIGHTENED CITIZENSHIP AND REFRAIN FROM SINKING INTO LYING PHARISAIISM WHICH, WHILE READY TO DENOUNCE THE WRONG, WILL NOT LIFT ITS SMALLEST FINGER TO REMOVE IT AND ITS CAUSES.

MISS EDYTHE PATTEN, SOON TO BECOME THE BRIDE OF GENERAL CORBIN.

GHOST OF THE PIT

There were supposed to be ghosts on the railroad line on which McFadden and Johnny Forber worked. One night a merchandise freight westbound dashed into a gravel pit. The wreck was not a serious one as the train had kept the rails of the Y, but when it was discovered later that half a car of silk was missing from this train, and said silk was traced from Chicago to the pit and there lost sight of, talk about ghosts and other queer things was considerable.

The company gained no clew to the method in which the silk was taken, and in a month or so, except to the detectives, the thing was forgotten. Then came another wreck at the dark pit, a bad wreck, and in that the company lost nearly a carload of mixed merchandise. Now the ghosts or thieves got away with it was a mystery. Wagon tracks were looked for, but not found. Not a road except that of the rails led into the pit. The nearest farmhouse was a mile away from the pit. The trainmen of the wreck—those that survived the wild plunge over a misplaced switch—reported that farmers came to their assistance.

When the third wreck occurred, about 7 o'clock one evening, and the wires conveyed the news to Chicago, the officials looked blankly at each other. Officers and help were ordered to the spot, but as it would take three or four hours to get there in the meantime the train and its men had to be left to their own care. This wreck had not injured the main line at all, and McFadden, coming east with the Orange limited, found at the last station before the pit would be reached that he could sail through without delay.

"Bad wreck?" he asked his conductor. "Two dead and everything picked up in the pit," was the answer. "Is it a ghost?" he asked Fireman Forbes in return.

"It's human devils out for loot," said Johnny, breaking up the coal into pieces as small as an apple and spreading it over his fire with great evenness. He gave the sides and corners of his firebox a little the preference in placing his coal, but only a practiced eye could have told that. Still, that little trick had already given Forbes the name of being the best fireman for the company on the road.

McFadden settled himself down in his cab seat, giving his engine just enough steam to make her start easy and increase in speed gradually. The night was uncommonly dark, and while he kept his eye on the rail his mind wandered ahead to where his fellow workmen were in the ditch, some dead, some injured, all in danger.

Had he been his own master he would have stopped the express at the gravel pit and gone to the assistance of the injured crew, but his orders were to come in fast and on time, and McFadden always obeyed. From the wreck his mind passed to thoughts of Brush, and his happy married life, the goodness of the president to him, and the general happiness in being alive, healthy and able to work.

His engine was making fine headway now, and the song of the wheels on the rails made wild music.

"Coming down to the pit," said Forbes to him.

Both men craned their necks for signals, but the lights at the switches were white. Down in the pit some lanterns were moving, and one of them waved feebly as they rushed by. Just east of the pit the track curved in a series of short reverses, then shot out straight, then curved again. McFadden always kept a sharp watch in there for stray cattle or people walking on the track. So this night he peered ahead, feeling the exultation of his engine, the blast of the wind and the uplifting the night possesses for any one compelled to live much in it.

Forbes left his firing and came and stood behind him a moment, as was his frequent wont. Both men were watching the rail and the curves ahead, and then they saw the dim outline of a car ahead of them, several moving figures, heard a wild scream, and what- ever had happened was over. McFadden got his train stopped, happy he was still on the rail. The train crew were out with frightened passengers looking for what had been struck. After awhile they found pieces of two push cars, a couple of bodies, two badly injured men and a considerable quantity of merchandise in bundles and packages. Then it was not explainable, but the next morning company agents, talking with one of the injured men, who was dying, learned the mystery of the gravel pit "ghost."

Half a dozen young farmers' sons, wild and wayward boys, had noted the Y track into the pit and the ease with which passing freights could be shunted in there. They had also mapped out the scheme of breaking into cars after wrecks took place—wrecks caused by themselves—and of loading their plunder on to push cars held on the track near by. These cars were rapidly run down the track a couple of miles and then unloaded on to wagons standing in the road. They were stored in a distant granary, from which in time they were conveyed into Chicago and sold at a considerable profit to the thieves. The use of the push cars had covered completely the manner in which the goods were taken from the cars and the blackness of the gravel pit itself had made it easy work to loot a car while pretending to be rescuers of the injured.

The night of the last wreck in their calculations the young criminals had forgotten that they were working on the time of the Orange limited. They did not know it was upon them until the electric headlight flashed out and it was too late to escape. So the "ghost" of the gravel pit was laid forever.—Chicago Record-Herald.

GOLDEN ROD

CELEBRATES THE ANNIVERSARY OF THE ORDER.

Program of Music and Addresses Was Followed by Refreshments at A. O. U. W. Hall.

Golden Rod Lodge No. 100 A. O. U. W., celebrated the thirty-third anniversary of the order Monday evening at the spacious lodge rooms in the Woodbridge block. The rooms in the rear of the main hall have been recently thrown together so as to make one vast reception room. This was thrown open Monday evening for the first time, and was fitted up at great expense that the lodge may have frequent repetitions of the social gathering.

Secretary J. G. Percy, of the Y. M. C. A., had charge of the program, which consisted of enjoyable readings by Miss Laura Crain and Miss Gregg.

A piano solo by Prof. Schultz was greatly appreciated by all and demonstrated the mastery which he certainly holds over that instrument. The vocal solos by Rollin Williams and Arthur Connolly were greatly enjoyed, and showed the culture which these young gentlemen are now receiving.

Judge J. D. Jones, one of the old members of this lodge and organizer J. J. Brown of Toledo, both gave spirited talks on the order, telling how 33 years ago John J. Upchurch, organized the first lodge in Meadville, Pa., with 13 members and how the order has grown until every state in the union and the dominion of Canada are dotted over with lodges of the A. O. U. W., having a membership today of nearly a half million; how this was the first effort to give insurance to the great middle classes of people at a cost they could pay; how the order has paid to widows and orphans the stupendous sum of $115,000,000 in death benefits and $20,000,000 more for the relief of distressed members; sums of money beyond our comprehension almost but more than any old line insurance company ever paid and more than one-third of all the other fraternal societies combined; how this order was the pioneer in fraternal insurance; paving its way over then unknown dangers, but guided by conservatism, and advised by the best judgment of the business world, it stands today, still the pioneer and leader of all fraternal insurance, but projected and matured by its own experience and constant contact with the insurance world. The speakers also told how it is able today to present a table of rates, just and equitable to both old and young, and safe for all, the cost of which is as low as the stability and permanency of the order will permit, and yet is about one-half of that of our best old line companies.

After the talks of Judge Jones and J. J. Brown, the brothers and their friends enjoyed the remainder of the evening around the festive punch bowl and in social conversation.

Matty Matthews Won. Buffalo, Oct. 29.—Matty Matthews of Brooklyn got a decision over Tom Couhig of Dunkirk, at the International Athletic club, in the fifth round of what was to have been a 20-round bout. Couhig started in with his usual slashing style, but Matthews brought him to a sudden stop in the fifth with a right on the jaw. Couhig, all but out, clinched, and showing Matthews against the ropes, struck the Brooklyn man several times before they could be separated. The referee stopped the bout and gave the decision to Matthews.

Chile and Argentine. Santiago, Chile, Oct. 29.—It is officially asserted here (in view of the warlike rumors published in the British newspapers) that the relations between Chile and Argentine are perfectly tranquil and that there is not the slightest cause for alarm. The existing difficulties will be settled amicably between the two governments. The only disquieting features are the utterances of the newspapers of Buenos Ayres. Nobody here contemplates war between Chile and Argentine.

Lawyer a Dead Shot. Memphis, Oct. 29.—A special from Meridian, Miss., reports the shooting of A. A. Crenshaw, a Newton county farmer, and his 18-year old daughter, by a lawyer named Foy, who called to serve a writ of attachment. The farmer and his daughter opened fire on the lawyer and he returned the fire. Crenshaw is thought to be fatally hurt, but the girl will recover. Foy escaped injury.

AMUSEMENTS.

The company supporting Go Won Go Mohawk in the new romantic drama, "The Flaming Arrow" which will appear at the Auditorium tomorrow evening, Oct. 30, gained a reputation during the run of the play in Chicago that has seldom been accorded any organization playing the popular priced houses. Aside from their cleverness, the entire production has been accorded the most flattering notices from the press and public. All special scenery was painted by those premier artists, W. D. Mann and H. J. Buhler, from actual scenes from the memory of Go Won Go Mohawk, and the Indian chiefs, Black Eagle, Moon Dog and Turkey, who were participants in the struggle that took place in the early days when the hardy pioneer encountered bloody opposition from the red men.

TRIUMPH OF DRAMATIC ART. Frank Keenan, who delighted a Newark audience last year as Noah Vale in "A Poor Relation," more than sustained his reputation here last evening when he appeared before a large audience at the Auditorium as the Hon. John Grigsby.

The play is historical to a letter, dealing with that notable period of 1849 in Illinois. Mr. Keenan has splendid support and as for the actor himself too great praise can hardly be given. Repeated curtain calls testified to the delight of the large audience when he comes to Newark.

AUDITORIUM TONIGHT. Primrose & Dockstader's great minstrel company will be at the Auditorium tonight under the auspices of the local lodge of Elks. This big show has been thoroughly advertised and the advance sale is very large. It is bound to draw a big crowd tonight and sure to please.

Dumont's Gift to the Poor. Paris, Oct. 29.—The morning papers publish correspondence between M. Santos-Dumont, the Brazilian aeronaut, and M. Deutsch, in which the latter offers and the former accepts 25,000 francs without prejudice to the Deutsch prize for a dirigible balloon, the award of which remains subject of future decision by the aero-station commission, which will meet Nov. 4. M. Santos Dumont will give the 25,000 francs to the prefect of police of Paris for distribution among the poor of the city in his name and that of M. Deutsch.

British Pay Indemnity. Washington, Oct. 29.—As a quick way of adjusting the claims of a small number of American citizens who were deported from South Africa and the Transvaal as a military necessity, the British government has offered to pay the lump sum of $30,000 over to the state department, which will distribute the money among the claimants. This proposition has not yet been acted upon, but probably will be accepted.

Found a Box of Gold. Mobile, Ala., Oct. 29.—The captain of the British schooner Attractor, from Grand Cayman, West Indies, reports the finding of considerable gold on a reef in Colombian waters. It is thought it went down with a vessel wrecked years ago. The coin will be brought here and assayed. The find created excitement at fruit ports.

Wanted Ransom Reduced. Vienna, Oct. 29.—Mr. Dickinson, United States consul general at Constantinople, has written to Miss Stone at Belitza, requesting her to induce the brigands to consent to reduce the ransom. The Bulgarian opposition journal, The Mir, declared that the troops fraternized with the brigands and allowed the latter to escape through the cordon.

A Horrible Murder. Chicago, Oct. 29.—A horrible murder, of which Mrs. Effie Louise Koeller was the victim, was discovered here. Edward Koeller, the woman's husband, and his brother, William Koeller, were arrested. Mrs. Koeller's throat was cut, her ribs broken, and she was practically disemboweled, evidently, the police say, by kicks.

The Dead Came to Life. New Albany, Ind., Oct. 29.—While an undertaker was preparing to lift upon a cooling board the supposed dead body of Mrs. Julia Bullock of this city, Mrs. Bullock revived. She had been pronounced dead by a physician and had lain for several hours with no apparent sign of life. Mrs. Bullock is still alive.

PARADE

With Fire Works and Music Preceded Initiation of Ten Candidates by Kootah Temple.

The members of Kootah Temple, No. 101, D. O. K. K., held a meeting in their temple Monday night, at which ten candidates were initiated into the mystery of the order.

Before the work there was a gorgeous parade of the members, clad in their resplendent oriental robes. The line of march was ablaze with fire works and it was a beautiful spectacle. The Buckeye band furnished fine music. The work was put on by the team of Kootah Temple, and great improvement was noticed, eliciting many favorable comments.

After the work a banquet was served at which speeches were made by W. A. Ashbrook, of Johnstown, F. S. Sperry of Utica, W. D. Benner, J. V. Hilliard, C. W. Seward, and others. The committee which had the meeting in charge did their work in the most thorough manner, and to them belongs a great deal of credit for the success of the affair.

On Monday evening Nov. 11, another meeting will be held. The work will probably be followed by a smoker.

THE LUGENBEAL CASE.

Mr. Norton Lugenbeal, a member of Co. G, Fourth O. N. G., and a brother of William Lugenbeal, who deserted from the U. S. army at Fort Keough, Mont., a few weeks ago, called at this office and asked the Advocate to state that his brother was not arrested by the authorities, but that he went to the post at Columbus and gave himself up to the proper officers of his own free will. It is very evident that Lugenbeal did not realize what he was doing when he left the post at Fort Keough, and no doubt after receiving the punishment merited by his offense he will serve out the remainder of his enlistment with a good record.

FORESTERS

Gave a Successful Oyster Supper and Entertainment for Benefit of the Hospital.

The oyster supper and entertainment given for the benefit of the city hospital, by the Independent Order of Foresters at the Redman's Hall Monday evening, was a great success and the gentlemen having the affair in charge have much cause to congratulate themselves on the outcome.

The supper of oysters, coffee, ice cream and cake was served by the ladies in the spacious dining room and there is no use in saying how good it all was, for it was "the best ever." The following program of music and readings had been arranged and the immense throng present listened with much attention to the different numbers:

Music, by club, Medley. Miss Maud Lyda, Reading. Phonograph. Cornet Solo, by Chas. Daly. Guitar solo, F. Vantrim. Cake Walk, by Misses Irene and Goldie.

Song, by Eleanor Place. Zither, Electric Wave March, by Martin Goss.

Phonograph, by J. Crabbin. Song, by Miss Sturman and Mrs. Chas. McVickers. Florence Target and Bessie Mullin in a cake walk.

Marie Lyda in a reading. G. L. Larkins, song. Banjo solo, by F. Vantrim. Comic song, by the Myer Sisters. Music, by J. Mosher, M. Goss, F. Crabbin.

This entertainment was given as a benefit to the hospital upon the suggestion of Mr. Charles Lederer, a prominent member of the order of Foresters, who feels very grateful to the hospital and its attendants for the kind and loving care given his wife, during her recent illness, when she was a patient at that institution.

I was induced to use them as a cure for nervousness restlessness, nervous sick headaches and depression. The box that I got at Bricker's City Drug store worked well in each instance and cured the trouble. I feel well and right again and can recommend them highly as thoroughly reliable."
